

Dr. Jim McAuley received his BS Pharmacy (1987) and PhD in Clinical Pharmaceutical Science (1993) both from the University of Pittsburgh. He started as an Assistant Professor of Pharmacy Practice at the Ohio State University College of Pharmacy in 1993. He has risen through the ranks to Full Professor of Pharmacy Education & Innovation. He holds a courtesy appointment in the Medical Center's Neurology Department. His teaching, practice, and research revolve around patients with epilepsy. He has been recognized for his teaching and is a Fellow of the American Pharmacists Association. Since 2014, he has served as the Associate Dean for Academic Affairs in the College of Pharmacy.

Learning Objectives:

- Discuss literature on PharmD student mental health
- Describe one PharmD program's evolution related to the student mental health